

NGX Power Auction moving to the NGX TradePath Auction Platform – June 9, 2015

NGX is pleased to announce that the NGX Power Auction will be moving to a modern browser based application called NGX TradePath.

In preparation for the transition from the old system to the new system, NGX will host a web demonstration of the new system as well as provide a sandbox environment and scheduled 'mock' trading sessions for customers to familiarize themselves and review full system functionality.

Key Dates	Time	Action
May 6	1:00 pm	System web demo for all customers – details to follow
May 26 – 29	1:00 pm	'Sandbox' demo environment available
May 27 – 29	10:00 am	Mock Trading sessions following regular auction schedule
June 9		Release and transition to new NGX TradePath platform!!

The new system is a significant change and improvement to the current Power Auction system, so all trading partners are strongly advised to participate in the training available. High level changes and features include:

- Browser based system which eliminates system installation issues and allows the system to be accessed from anywhere there is a supported web browser
- Improved functionality and user interface
- New historical reporting including Trade Summary and Order History
- Improved order release and order management tools
- Trades will automatically be loaded into the NGX Clearing system and be immediately available via NGX web services.
